XIV. Workshop of the dggö-committee “Allocation and Distribution”

University of Oldenburg, November 17th and 18th, 2023

The dggö-committee “Allocation and Distribution” invites you to its fourteenth workshop. It will take place at the Carl von Ossietzky University of Oldenburg on November 17th and 18th, 2023. This in-person workshop will commence on Friday noon and will end on Saturday noon.

The keynote speaker will be Prof. Dr. J. O. Mierau (Professor for Public Health Economics, University of Groningen). His keynote presentation is entitled „Lifestyle, socio-economic differences, and health policy“.

At the workshop, members of the dggö and other interested scholars have the opportunity to present their current research. Topics that will be considered include among others:

- Prioritization or rationing of health care services
- Regional distributional aspects of health care provision
- Risk selection in health care
- Inequality in health
- Physician behavior and incentives
- Distributional effects of health care financing
- Distributional criteria for health care goods

Please submit your paper or an extended abstract (1-page description of your research) to wiesen@wiso.uni-koeln by July 31, 2023.

Contributions for the workshop will be selected and authors will be notified by August 30, 2023. After notification, the workshop registration will be opened. Registration without presenting a paper is also possible if you are willing to serve as a discussant.

We are looking very much forward to welcoming you all in Oldenburg!
